ROYAL FAMILY ABOARD YACHT; AND PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT IN CHARGE

Minister Of Justice Says Assurances Of Support In Provinces Forestall Civil War

SITUATION IN SPAIN WHERE CORTES HAS BEEN CALLED TO MEET BECOMES INCREASINGLY GRAVE

London, Oct. 6.—Minister of Justice Costa, of the provisional government of Portugal, today announced officially that the royal family is fleeing from Portugal. This statement is made in answer to a story that Manuel is at Madrid and is rallying his forces. Costa acknowledged the receipt of numerous messages pledging the support of other provinces. "Civil war is unlikely," Costa said. "The complete success of the Republic is assured."

Queen Is Safe.

Madrid, Oct. 6.—Premier Canalejas declared positively today that the queen mother of Portugal and the Duke of Oporto are aboard one of the royal yachts and safe from capture.

The Casualties.

Barcelona, Spain, Oct. 6.—Two hundred killed and 400 wounded is the estimate of casualties in Lisbon. Fighting is reported by person arriving here today from the capital.

(By Chas. P. Stewart staff correspondent of the United Press.)

Madrid, Oct. 6. (By Courier to Hendaye, France, Oct. 3.)—The Spanish parliament met here October 3, in what many fear will be its last session. Premier Canalejas, disregarding the advice of those who would temporize, has called the parliament and Madrid is conscious of the fact that all Europe is awaiting almost breathlessly the developments of the next few days.

The world-wide fight of people against property, the very fight which is engulfing America and England today, is being waged here. In Spain it has taken the form of a battle between the church and the state, but the issue is the same as in other countries, save that here the church is really property interests and the state personal interests.

The fight is really a three cornered one. The Conservatives and the Clericals, constituting practically a single group—for a Conservative is always a Clerical and a Clerical always a Conservative—want the church left absolutely alone. They are monarchists, but if King Alfonso sticks to his present program of interference with church privileges, they will favor deposing him and of elevating Don Jaime, the Carlist pretender, to the throne. Upon Jaime's loyalty to church interests they can count unquestioningly.

The Liberals are the second group. They are monarchists, too, but they think the church's authority in Spain too great and want it limited. Thirdly, there are the extreme radicals—Republicans, Socialists, Anarchists, Trades Unionists, Freemasons, and in Catalonia, Separatists—together with various subdivisions of each group. They want the Spanish church and state completely divorced, church property confiscated by the state, state support of the church withdrawn and the religious orders driven out of Spain as they were driven out of France a few years ago. Most of them also want a Republican form of government for the country. Incidentally, the Separatists want the Catalan provinces to secede from Spain and set up as an independent nation.

Trouble will probably come in one of two ways. Premier Canalejas may succeed in holding King Alfonso to his present determination to limit the church's powers, upon which there is practically no doubt that the church will declare for Don Jaime and attempt a forcible change of sovereigns. Or the king, who is by no means an enthusiastic supporter of the limitation program, may turn Señor Canalejas out of office and put a Conservative premier in his place. If this happens the anti-clericals will revolt and undertake the establishment of a republic.

What Premier Canalejas proposes is to make church establishments in Vienna, Austria, Oct. 6.—

(Copyright 1910 by United Press.)—"I have known no disgrace in being the mistress of a king, but I would consider it an everlasting disgrace to advertise our relationship, glorified as it was by a love, which even court a conventionality could not throttle."

Thus spoke Portugal's "uncrowned queen," Gaby Deslys, whose twinkling eyes brought Manuel to his knees, a subject instead of a king; cost the boy ruler this misfortune and his throne; plunged the kingdom into civil war that snuffed out hundreds of lives and sent the dynasty rolling in the dust.

In an interview with the United Press today, Deslys, the French dancer, continued:

"Yes, I was the king's mistress. I first met Manuel 15 months ago in Paris, where I was dancing. He was brought behind the scenes and introduced to me after the performance. It was love at first sight, and I became his mistress. The love I bore him and the love he bore me justified all in our eyes."

Spain subject to ordinary civil law, to tax them, to put some limit upon the number of monastic orders in the country and to grant freedom of public worship to others than Catholics.

Fired in Doing Duty.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—G. W. Oakes, a former car inspector for the Illinois Central railroad, declared on the witness stand in the municipal court that he was ordered discharged from the employ of the railroad by Frank B. Harriman, then general manager, because he was doing his duty.

SPLIT ON LIQUOR QUESTION PLANK

PATTERSON DEMOCRATS WILL GET AROUND IT AND NOMI- NATE BOB TAYLOR.

Nashville, Oct. 6.—The Patterson Democrats in convention here today will nominate Bob Taylor for governor. The platform that will be submitted to the Democratic state convention tomorrow will contain no declaration of the party's future policy in the matter of temperance legislation.

These are the predictions following a conference among the leaders of the party on the ground, held at the Maxwell House. Some thirty well known Democratic party workers took part in the conference. The subject that occasioned the one prolonged debate was that of the temperance plank, and the conferees stood out for a straightout statewide plank as offering the only prospect for a successful campaign before the people. Others were for a strict local option declaration. The conference could not agree, and so a committee of six members was named to work out a solution of the deadlock.

PROVOCATION OF MRS. EBLEN GREAT

FOUND HUSBAND IN ARMS OF COOK AND SHOT HIM, SHE TESTIFIES.

Henderson, Ky., Oct. 6. (Special.)—Mrs. Zorah Eblen, in testifying in her own behalf on the charge of murdering her husband, said she found her husband in the embrace of a negro cook and shot him.

GRAND JURY IS ABOUT THROUGH

Jail Cases Have Been Principally Occupying Attention of Inquisitorial Body Since Court Convened.

But a few more jail cases remain to be heard by the grand jury, and it is expected that the cases will be finished late this afternoon or tomorrow. Then the grand jurors will begin investigations of other violations of the law, and work on new cases. Part of the evidence in the case against Tom Ferrin has been heard, but an indictment has not been returned. The grand jury has not touched the assassination of Frank McManus, but will make an investigation of the crime.

During the session of circuit court this morning there were three convictions and three acquittals. John Gibson, colored, was acquitted on the charge of breaking into a storeroom, and Libby Dunlap, colored, was acquitted on the charge of malicious cutting. Hub Winstead, colored, was another fortunate defendant as he was acquitted of the charge of false swearing.

Dan Owens, colored, was convicted on the charge of malicious striking. For jail breaking, Dave Slagle was sentenced to six months in the county jail. Charles Hamilton, colored, was charged with malicious cutting, but the jury returned a verdict of guilty to the charge of cutting in sudden heat and passion, and his punishment was fixed by a fine of $100.

Taylor Rice was dismissed of the charge of petit larceny as he was tried in county court.

Today the grand jury returned indictments against Gerlie Gaines, malicious cutting; M. Wynn, petit larceny; and Shelton Hale, malicious cutting. Will Green, charged with housebreaking, was dismissed as no indictment was returned.

Tomorrow's Docket.

The following cases are set for trial tomorrow: Dr. C. E. Furell, malicious shooting; Jim Jones, alias Jim Drake and Jennie Lynn, murder; J. H. Egan, appeal; Craig McGee, horse stealing and obtaining money by false pretenses; F. Hobbs, malicious shooting, two cases; Eugene Bright, obtaining goods by false pretenses.

F. L. Brown and J. L. Anderson were excused as petit jurors and J. R. Blandford and J. Q. Thompson were empaneled to fill the vacancies.

The trial of Annie Cox, charged with keeping and maintaining a bawdy house, was set for tomorrow. Addie Wilson was granted a divorce from Seclan Wilson. Gus House was granted a divorce from Pina House.

Pool Road Case.

It is rumored this afternoon that the grand jury will return three indictments for the murder of the unidentified youth on the Pool road. Tom Farrin has been in jail since his arrest and confession. Guy Dean was released on his second examining trial for a lack of evidence by the prosecution.

James Hamby

James H. Hamby, 59 years old, of 442 Kincaid avenue, died at 12:20 o'clock this afternoon after a seven weeks' illness of dropsy. He was born in Graves county and had resided in Paducah several years. He was a laborer. Surviving him are his wife and six children, as follows: Mrs. Dora Vandergriff, Mrs. Mary Childers and Messrs. Thomas, R. L., Harry and Simon Hamby. Mr. Hamby was a member of the Missionary Baptist church. The funeral services will be held tomorrow.

HURT BY AUTO.

Harry Sullivan, of 1011 Trimble street, who was run down by an automobile October 1, is unimproved and his injuries have proved more serious than first suspected. It is believed he was injured internally. His right leg was lacerated, his foot crushed and his left hip dislocated. It is believed, however, that he will recover.

MISS PARKER HAS EXCITING TRIP

PRIVATE SECRETARY TO DR. TORREY CROSSES OCEAN IN STORM.

Miss Mary Moody Parker, of Wilmington, Del., private secretary to Dr. R. A. Torrey, had a close call for her life a week ago on her voyage from Scotland to the United States. The steamship came near sinking when two days out at sea.

Miss Parker reached Paducah early this morning to take up her duties. She is at the Palmer House, where Dr. Torrey and his staff of workers are staying. Miss Parker is still somewhat nervous over the exciting voyage, which she says was bad all but two days. After spending some time in Scotland and Ireland visiting, Miss Parker sailed from Greenock, Scotland, Saturday, September 24, for New York. Two days out from Londonderry, Ireland, a heavy storm set in. The first two days had been ideal. The following Monday the skies darkened and the sea rolled. The steamship "Furness" of the Anchor Line, on which she sailed, tossed and dipped and rocked until the crew practically gave up hopes of getting through it.

All passengers strapped life preservers on themselves and the life boats were hung over the side of the ship ready for an emergency.

Miss Parker has been Dr. Torrey's private secretary several years. She is a graduate of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, and for many years has been a devoted and unceasing Y. W. C. A. worker.

Would Train Every Boy to Be Soldier.

St. Louis, Oct. 6.—The plan to ask congress to place the national guard on the army salary list at rates of from five to twenty-five per cent of the regular wages was adopted at a conference of national guard officers here. Gen. Leonard Wood, who attended the conference, said the war department would support the bill to appropriate $5,000,000 to $6,000,000 as pay for officers and enlisted men of the guards. Every boy in the United States more than 13 years of age should be trained as a soldier, according to General Wood.

On Trail of Dynamites.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 6.—Detective W. J. Burns, investigating the dynamite outrages today said: "The arrest of the men who dynamited the Times plant is now only a matter of a few hours. Every movement of the dynamiters has been traced from the time they purchased the dynamite at Oakland."

COUNTY HEALTH OFFICERS WILL MEET IN PADUCAH

Dr. McCormack Considers This City Proper Place to Inaugurate School

Considers it Most Advanced in Sanitation.

TOLD MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.

Because of the splendid sanitary condition of Paducah as a model for other cities, the first school of the county health officers will be conducted in Paducah by Dr. J. N. McCormack, secretary of the state board of health. There is no greater admirer of Paducah's excellent sanitary system than Dr. McCormack, and he emphasized it at the state medical meeting at Lexington last week. When the invitation for the association to meet in Paducah in 1911 was extended by Dr. W. W. Richmond, president of the Southwestern Medical society, Dr. McCormack paid Paducah a splendid tribute in seconding the motion.

Unfortunately the speech of Dr. McCormack was not taken down by the stenographer, but he paid the city a glowing tribute. He said that in point of modern sanitation that Paducah had outstripped every other city in the commonwealth and is in a class to herself, and it is a swift pace for the other cities to follow.

He said that Paducah has the best sewerage system, the purest water supply, the cleanest streets, pavements and gutters, and that her strides and advancement in methods of modern sanitation have no equal in the state. He called attention to the reduction of the death rate from 25 per 1,000 in 1893, to 13 per 1,000 in 1909, and he said that Paducah is the only city in the state, excepting Louisville, that had a camp for the treatment of tubercular cases.

On account of these virtues he said that he intends to hold the first session of the county health officers' school in Paducah before the next state meeting. The school was established at the last session of the legislature.

LONG FLIGHT CALLED OFF.

Disagreement of Officials Over Advertising.

St. Louis, Oct. 6.—The proposed flight of Walter Brookings from Springfield, Ill., to St. Louis, next Saturday, was called off by the Aero club of St. Louis tonight.

The announcement that no flight would be made followed a disagreement between officials of the local organization and the Springfield Fair association. The latter refused to permit the advertisement of the flight, claiming they had a contract with the Wrights covering until Sunday night.

SEN. BRODERICK DENIES CHARGE

SAYS HE PAID NO MONEY TO ANYONE FOR VOTES FOR LORIMER.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—Senator John Broderick before the Lorimer committee today denied every allegation made against him by Senator Holtslaw in connection with the payment of money after the election of Lorimer. In substance Broderick's testimony was that he did not give Holtslaw $2,500 for voting for Lorimer; that he did not recall saying to Holtslaw, "We are going to elect Lorimer tomorrow," that he at no time had any financial dealings with Holtslaw, and that he never at any time offered any money or any reward for Lorimer votes. Broderick testified that he voted for Lorimer because the senator was his friend, but he did not receive any money for the vote.

Broderick asserted his constitutional rights when asked: "Did you in June or July write to Holtslaw and ask him to call on you?" Broderick was allowed to leave the room for five minutes with his attorney. Broderick then refused to answer. Senator Hoyburn opposed a conference between Broderick and Dawson as a bad precedent.

WEST KENTUCKY FLOODED; FULTON IS UNDER WATER; CALLOWAY FAIR SWAMPED

People Taken From Houses In Boats and Bridges are Wash Out In Pur- chase Counties

CHILD CRUSHED ON PRIZE LOAD OF PEOPLE AT MURRAY WHILE GOING THROUGH GATE AT THE FAIR GROUND.

There is no danger of a flood stage (40 feet) at Paducah. This announcement was made today by Saunders A. Fowler, in charge of the government records at the Paducah office.

According to Mr. Fowler there has been no rainfall in the upper Tennessee and Cumberland valleys and no rain at Pittsburgh. The precipitation seems to be confined from Cincinnati to Cairo and up the Wabash and White river valleys.

The continuous rainfall here for the past three days is unprecedented. Five inches were recorded from 7 o'clock Wednesday morning to 7 o'clock this morning, making the total precipitation for three days, 8.90. It has been raining almost steadily today but the volume has decreased to a great extent. So far the total rainfall up to this afternoon is between 9 and 11 inches. Never in the history of Paducah has this amount fallen at one time.

It was almost an unprecedented rise in the Ohio at Paducah yesterday and last night. Yesterday morning at 7 o'clock the government gauge at the foot of Broadway marked 5.9 feet and this morning the gauge showed 12.2 feet of water, a rise of 6.3 feet in 24 hours. The river will continue rising here but will not reach a higher stage than from 16 to 18 feet. This is assured. The stages of the wharves were nearly submerged early this morning, but the wharves were pulled closer to shore before noon without any damage being done. During the high wind over the local harbor last night the towboat Chancey Lamb and packetboat Electra, moored at the foot of Monroe street, were blown out into the river but were soon caught and taken back, where they were made fast with heavier lines. The two sand diggers and outfit owned by the Ohio River Sand & Gravel company and Thompson & Etter were lying a good distance off shore this morning, caused by the big rise. They were not damaged.

There is no occasion for alarm, according to Mr. Fowler, as only several weeks of rainfall would cause a flood stage.

Many Washouts.

Washouts and submerged tracks delayed all trains arriving in Paducah today. The constant rainfall has made it impossible and dangerous for the trains to attain a high speed and even the fast passenger trains have drifted along at a slow speed where the tracks are low. So far no wrecks have been reported on the Louisville division of the Illinois Central, but all of the trains are running behind the schedule.

The constant rain since Monday night has made it anything but pleasant for the railroad men. The creeks are swollen and are out of their banks. In many places the right of way is badly washed, but the only washout is reported near Morganfield. Fast passenger train No. 103, due from Louisville at 3:52 o'clock, did not arrive until 7:30 o'clock this morning. The Chicago train, due yesterday afternoon at 3:40 o'clock, did not arrive until this morning.

Surratt Infant.

The 11-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Surratt, of Tyler, died at 5:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon after a short illness of cholera infantum. The body was taken to Oaks station this afternoon at 2:15 o'clock, where the funeral and burial was held in the family burying ground.

Anti-Vice Crusade

East St. Louis, Ill., Oct. 6.—Indictments against twenty-four citizens, charged with conducting gambling places and five others for conducting disorderly houses, were returned by the grand jury today. This is the result of the anti-vice crusade.

Castings on Exhibition.

The celebrated castings of "The Old Oaken Bucket" and "My Old Kentucky Home," by Dan Galvin, are on exhibition at the No. 5 fire station. The castings were on exhibition at the fair and attracted much attention, but were left at the fire station in order that others might see the famous pieces of art.

Fulton, Ky., Oct. 6. (Special.)—The continued heavy rains for the last four days forced the Harrison creek above high water mark last night. About 1 o'clock this morning a general fire alarm was turned in, awakening the whole town. There were two feet of water on Lake street, the principal business street. In the negro quarters the water was much higher, and some of the negroes on their house-tops were screaming for help. The water is subsiding and the situation relieved.

Carlisle County Soaked.

Bardwell, Ky., Oct. 6. (Special.)—Nearly every bridge in the county is washed out by the floods caused by the heavy downpour of the last two days. Bridges in town also went out, and cellars are flooded. The water covers the first floor of Mrs. Busch's residence. The flood will cost the county, city and merchants thousands of dollars.

Wickliffe Under Water.

Wickliffe, Ky., Oct. 6. (Special.)—Over ten inches of rain has fallen here in 60 hours and bridges in the town and county are washed out and sidewalks in many places are gone.

Murray Fair Inundated.

Murray, Ky., Oct. 6. (Special.)—Calloway county's fair is called off for today and thousands of people are in Murray unable to get home, because bridges are out and Clark's river, which usually is a half mile from town, is right at the foot of the hill at the edge of Murray. Ten thousand people got wet at the fair grounds yesterday. Nearly every school child in the county was present.

One accident happened. The Calloway Gazette offered $10 to the man bringing the most people to the fair on one wagon. The wagon of one man, hauling 145, broke down. William McClain, with 138 on his wagon, won the prize. The child of William West, of Lynn Grove, was hurt while the wagon was going through the gate. Ada Wilkes won the 2:25 pace yesterday. Races are called off today.

Drouth Broken in Marshall.

Benton, Ky., Oct. 6. (Special.)—It has been raining for three days in Marshall county, doing great damage to roads and county bridges.

Louisville Swamped.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 6. (Special.)—Reports from all parts of western Kentucky show from 8 to 10 inches of rain has fallen within the last 36 hours. Much damage is done. The Illinois Central, the L. & N. and other lines are blocked in some places. In Louisville the traffic on some of the car lines is blocked.

FLOWERS STREWN ON THE WATERS OF HUDSON RIVER

New York, Oct. 6.—As a memorial to the dead, flowers were strewn on the waters of the Hudson this afternoon by officers and sailors of the battleship New Hampshire, more than 20 of whose crew are supposed to have perished in Saturday night's swamping of a barge.

Fine Euphonium.

Frank Burrows, euphonist in Professor John Dean's reorganized band of 21 pieces, has just received what is considered the finest instrument of its kind ever owned in Paducah. It was made by Buecher & Co., of Elkhart, Ind., and is a silver plated instrument with double gold plated bells. Instead of three valves this euphonium has four and is both powerful and sweet in tone. Mr. Burrows has received many compliments on the horn.

MILLS BURN WITH NEW WHEAT IN TENNESSEE

Reward

The city of Paducah will pay $500 for the arrest and conviction of the murderer of Frank McManus.

This murder was committed about 10:30 p. m. September 29, 1910, on the front porch of Frank McManus, between Jones and Tennessee streets on South Sixth street, this city.

The murdered man was a driver of a beer delivery wagon of the Evansville Brewing association, was about 35 years old, of athletic build, and bore a good reputation. Was shot twice with a large calibre revolver, about 44; at close range.

This reward will be paid in cash. JAMES P. SMITH, Mayor of Paducah, Ky.

REVOLUTION IN PORTUGAL

from sympathizers in London and Paris to the leaders of the various parties. They were easy of access. They gave all the information at their command quite readily. But from actual interviews they shied the minute the idea was suggested. Interviews are dangerous things to give out in Spain. They lead to too many shootings of the interviewed. They do not always lead to them at once, but they are not forgotten and nobody knows when they may yield results in the form of cold lead. Francisco Ferrer was not shot for anything he had done but for things he had written and said a long time previously.

How precarious life is in King Alfonso's country may be judged from the case of Antonio Fabra Ribas, a very well known Spanish newspaper man living in Paris, who furnished me with credentials to a number of his colleagues in Madrid and Barcelona. Senor Ribas had the bad luck to be sentenced to death by a military court during the reactionary regime of Premier Maura, who turned his country into a slaughterhouse during the troubles of July and August, 1909, but beat the executioner across the frontier and has made his home in France ever since. Now, Premier Canalejas, the head of the present Liberal administration, had an idea that the newspaperman's sentence was unjust and he let him know that he may return home in safety whenever he chooses. Senor Ribas would like to go but is afraid of the re-establishment of reactionary regime on such short notice as to preclude the possibility of a second flight. In which case he is well aware that his previous sentence would be executed without further ceremony.

So "it isn't safe" is the invariable answer to any request of a man of political prominence actually to attach his name to an interview of even a mildly radical character. What is going on, however, is plain enough.

Madrid, it ought to be understood, is not a revolutionary center. For one thing, the people of the various provinces of Spain are of types differing widely from one another, and the Castilians happen to be of a particularly peaceful, easy-going character. King Alfonso is personally popular in his capital. The citizens consider the royal court a local asset and would not generally like a shaking-up calculated to endanger it.

There is a Republican element in Madrid but it is weak as compared with those in the other large Spanish cities. But even in Madrid it is recognized that the signs are ominous. "If the Carlists had money," said one high government official with whom I talked, "there would certainly be war in Spain. Fortunately they are mostly poor. That may save us. I doubt if they can raise funds for a campaign." This epitomizes the general view in Madrid.

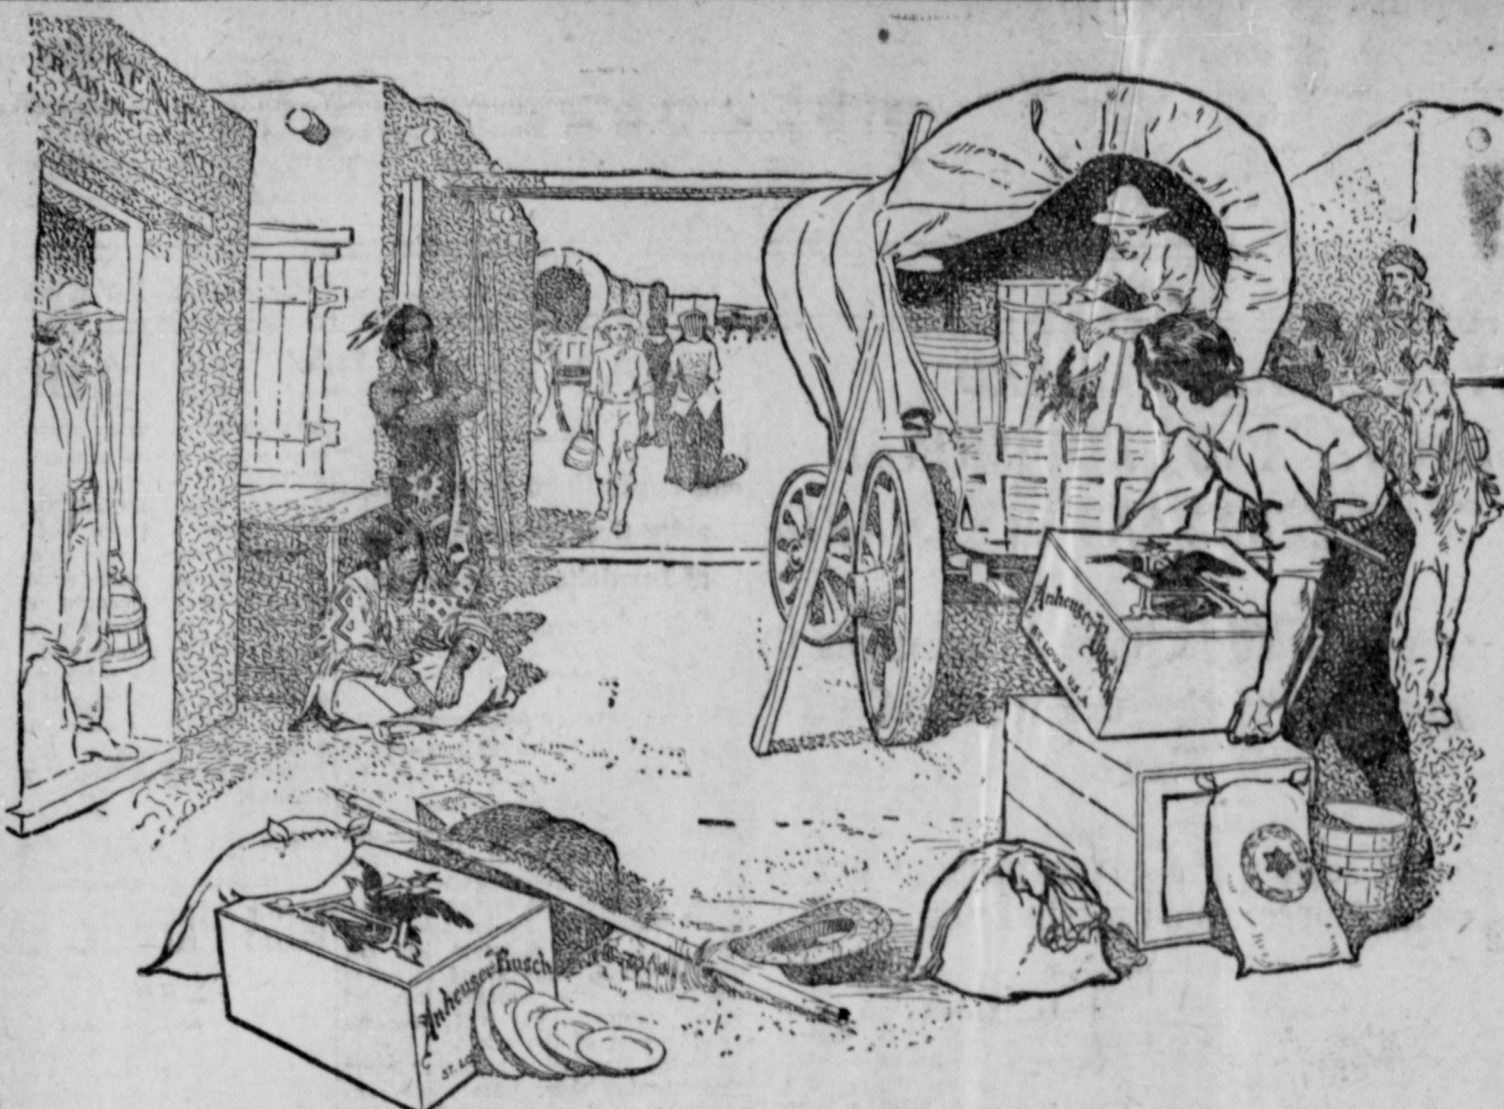

Elsewhere this financial argument is laughed at. The Carlists are poor, it is agreed, but no doubt is felt that the friends will find money for them as soon as it becomes positive that it has nothing more to hope from Alfonso. Whether or not it will win the present king back, it is hard even to guess. Just now he seems firm for the Canalejas program but the church's influence over him is very strong, that of the queen mother, Maria Christina, an ardent Clerical, is stronger still, and Alfonso himself, for all of a somewhat informal and democratic manner, is looked on as a reactionary at heart.

It is in the industrial districts that real revolution is in the air. In these sections the people will not even be satisfied with a limitation of the church's privileges. Insofar as it is a vested interest they want it driven out of Spain. They also want a republic. I was doubtful upon this point when I visited the country. If the right resolved itself into a struggle between Alfonso and the anti-Clericals on one side and Don Jaime and the Clericals on the other, I imagined it possible that the Republicans might cast their lot with Alfonso for the time.

The Republicans I talked with undecieved me upon this point. "We are Republicans," said one of them, holding the almost universal opinion, "and a republic is what we will have. Besides, there cannot be effective limitation of the church's powers under Alfonso any more than under Jaime."

Alfonso Not Popular. Moreover, outside Madrid, Alfonso is not the popular monarch he is generally represented. He is regarded not so much with hatred as with contempt. His people think him a weakling who can never be kept long from under reactionary influence. The Catalans, for example, incline to accept as true the statement that he did not know the extent of the butcheries in Barcelona during last year's troubles, "but what do you think," they ask, "of a king who remains in ignorance of what is going on while his subjects are being shot down by thousands only a night's ride away from his own capital?"

A conversation I had with one of the most trustworthy of the Republican leaders in Barcelona gives an idea of the feeling the people there have. "You have heard," he said, "of the Barcelona bomb outrages? Well, they have been going on for eight years. Just now there are not quite so many as usual, but even yet it is seldom that a week passes without one or two. Now, in all that time not one single culprit has been caught. Isn't it rather odd that they should continue for so long without a sign of activity on the part of the police?"

"Bear in mind, too, that these bombs are expensive. We radicals are poor men. How do we find the money for bomb-making month after month and year after year? The work must be done in safe places which it is hidden for so long. And, finally, it is very curious that none are thrown at aristocrats or high officials or churchmen. They are simply scattered about the streets, where, when they explode they kill and mangle poor men and women alone."

"Now, can't you think of any class whose influence with the government is so great that the police would not dare to voice a suspicion of it, a class which has skill and money and accommodation to do the work easily and secretly and to whose interest it would be to spare the very people against whom real anarchist bombs would surely be directed? No? Why, they're manufactured in the convents of course, and the campaign is kept up to prejudice law-abiding people against the progressive movement by making them believe it anarchistic and murderous."

The Propaganda. The revolutionary propaganda in Catalonia naturally has to be carried on with a great deal of caution, for it is closely watched by the police. Meetings are held regularly in Barcelona, however, a thorough and most efficient organization exists, representatives of the central committee are constantly at work throughout the rest of Spain, and the strongest efforts are being made to weld the various revolutionary groups into a compact body. Lack of cohesion, is, as a matter of fact, the great weakness of the revolutionary movement just now. Alexandre Lerroux comes nearer than any other individual to being its leader. He is a plain Republican, however, the numbers of his followers do not think this enough. The Ferrerites are out-and-out anarchists. The Solidaridad Obrera, or central labor organization, is Socialistic. The Freemasons are anti-Clerical before they are Republican.

All these different groups are constantly hauling in different directions and Senor Lerroux has the hardest kind of work to keep them together. The Ferrerites even go so far as to say that Republican influence contributed to Ferrer's execution last year, because the Republicans thought him so advanced a radical as to endanger their cause. Trades unionists complain at the high place recently given by Lerroux in his party to Don Toribio Sanchez, a millionaire whom he induced to join the movement for the sake of the financial assistance he could give it. The Separatists accuse the Republicans of defeating all efforts to carry out the former's plan for Catalonia's secession from Spain.

Nevertheless the Republican leader is getting steadily nearer to an effective working agreement of all the parties and undoubtedly has them now at a point where they will fight together against the monarchy and the church however much they may subsequently squabble among themselves.

The monarchists are getting all the satisfaction they can out of the reflection that the revolutionary movement is not so strong anywhere else in Spain as in Catalonia. The truth is, however, that under Catalan management it is growing in all the industrial centers, like Balboa, Saragossa, Valladolid, Seville and even in Madrid and that, when the outbreak comes, Catalonia will get very effective support from all these places.

To say, indeed, that the movement is unimportant because confined to Catalonia would be in itself misleading. Barcelona, with 550,000 population to Madrid's 590,000, is the largest city in Spain. It is also immensely the richest. The four Catalan provinces pay more taxes than all the rest of Spain combined. The people are the best educated and even at that only two-thirds of them can read and write. They are liberty loving, the best soldiers and the ablest politicians in King Alfonso's realm.

In short, a united Catalanian attempt at separation from the rest of Spain would stand a fair chance of success, and as a last resort, if the Republican movement elsewhere should be defeated, this is undoubtedly what will be undertaken.

If King Alfonso sticks to the Canalejas program the fight will be between a party consisting of Conservatives, Clericals and Carlists under Don Jaime, a second group of Liberals under King Alfonso and a third including all the radical groups under Alejandro Lerroux.

If the king yields to the church he will have the support of the Conservatives, the Clericals and something like half of the Liberals—those who think the preservation of the monarchy even more important than a limitation of the church's authority. On the other side will be the Radicals and those of the Liberals who are less for the monarchy than for freedom from Clerical domination. With whom the Carlists would cast their lot in such a situation nobody stops to consider. Unless backed by the church they are not a formidable element.

The Conservatives and Clericals have enormous wealth. Alfonso has the government organization. The radicals have almost the whole of the urban industrial population. How ever the struggle may end there is every prospect of gory times ahead for Spain.

This is quoted from a letter of M. Stockwell, Hannibal, Mo. "I recently used Foley's Honey and Tar for the first time. To say I am pleased does not half express my feelings. ## STORE YOUR MACHINE THIS WINTER IN A HEATED ROOM.

By storing your car for the winter in a heated room, you will avoid endless trouble and annoyance—and have the use of the car many a day during the winter when you would otherwise forego that pleasure because of the trouble involved.

Arrangements have all been completed for heating our big west wing for storage purposes—so that radiators need not be drained or non-freezing compounds used. Come and get your car when you want to use it—leave it in a warm, safe place when not in use.

This is an innovation which we believe motorists will appreciate. No matter whether you intend to store your car at home or in a garage this winter, our proposition beats it.

"WHERE ART THOU?"

God's First Question of Man.

Dr. Torrey Brings Same Question Home to People in Paducah—His Sermon at Auditorium Rink Meeting Last Night.

"Where Art Thou?" the words that rang out so ominously through Eden, searching the ears of the first man, were repeated last night by Dr. Torrey in his sermon at the Auditorium, Broadway and Tenth street, applying the same inquiry to modern times and asking the people of Paducah where they stand. He said the same question that God asked Adam. He is asking every man and woman today, and, like Adam, who tried to hide in the Garden of Eden, his descendants today are trying to hide by refraining from reading their Bibles and attending church.

He asked church members where they stand, whether they are wholly on the Lord's side, or whether they are trying to hold to Christ with one hand and the world with the other, devoting Sunday, perhaps, to devotional exercises and the rest of the week to worldly amusements.

On account of the continued downpour of rain but a comparatively small audience was present.

Dr. Torrey said:

Dr. Torrey's sermon in full follows:

"My subject tonight is the first question that God ever asked of man. You will find that question in Gen. iii. 9. 'Where art thou?' God asked the question of Adam.

Adam had sinned, and on the evening of that awful day of the first sin the voice of God in its majesty was heard rolling down the avenue of the garden of Eden. Adam had often heard God's voice before, and the voice of God had been the sweetest music to Adam up till this day. Adam knew no greater joy than that of glad communion with his Creator and his Heavenly Father. But now all was different, and as the voice of God was heard rolling through the garden, Adam was filled with fear, and tried to hide himself.

This is the history of every son of Adam from that day till this. When sin enters our hearts and our lives we seek to hide from God. Every sinner is trying to hide from the presence and the all-seeing eye of God. That accounts for a very large share of the skepticism and infidelity and the agnosticism and atheism of our day. It is sinful man trying to hide from a most holy God.

"Men will give you many reasons why they are skeptics, many reasons why they are infidels and agnostics and atheists, but in the great majority of cases the real reason is this—men hope by the denial of the existence of God to hide themselves from the discomfort of God's acknowledged presence.

That accounts also for very much of the neglect of the Bible. People will tell you that they do not read their Bibles because they have too much else to read, that they do not read their Bibles because they are not interested in the Bible, and that it is a dull and stupid book to them; but the real cause of man's neglect of Bible study is this: The Bible brings God near to us as no other book does, and men are uneasy in the conscious presence of God, so they neglect the book that brings God near.

This also accounts for much of the absenteeism from the house of God and its services. People will give you many reasons why they do not attend church; they will tell you they cannot dress well enough to attend church, will tell you that they are too busy and too tired to attend church; they will tell you that the services of God's house are dull and uninteresting, but in the great majority of cases the reason why men and women, old and young, habitually absent themselves from the services of God's house is because the house of God brings God near and makes men uncomfortable in sin, and their desire to hide from God, more or less distinct, leads them to stay away from the house of God.

But Adam did not succeed in hiding from God. Neither will you succeed. No man ever succeeded in hiding from God. God said to Adam 'Where art thou?' and Adam had to come from his hiding-place and meet God face to face, and make full declaration of all his sin.

Sooner or later, no matter how carefully we have hid ourselves from God, sooner or later every man and woman in this building will have to come from his hiding-place and meet the all-holy God face to face, and make full declaration of just where they stand in His presence.

The Old Question.
"I believe that God is putting the question of the text to every man and woman in this building tonight, to every Christian, and to every one who is not a Christian. 'Where art thou?' Where do you stand as regards spiritual and eternal things? Where do you stand as regards God, as regards heaven, as regards right, as regards Christ, as regards eternity? 'Where art thou?' Every wise man in this hall will be glad to face and answer that question. Every truly intelligent man desires to know just where he is. In business every wise business man desires to know just where he stands financially.

In our country, at just this time of year, every careful business man takes an inventory of his stock-in-trade, casts up his accounts, finds out precisely what are his debts, how much his assets exceed or fall below his liabilities. He wants to know just where he stands. He may discover as a result of his scrutiny that he does not stand as well as he thought he did. He may find that he is in debt, when he hoped that his capital exceeded his liabilities. If that is true, he wants to know it in order that he may conduct his business accordingly. Many a man has made shipwreck in business through unwillingness to face facts and find out just where he stood.

"Years ago I knew in America a very brilliant business man, a man really gifted along certain lines of business enterprise. But his affairs got into a tangled condition. His wise business friends came to him to find out just where he stood. They said to him, 'If you are in a bad shape we will help you out.' But the man was too proud to take their advice; he was too proud to admit that his business was in a bad way, so he refused to look into it. He shut his teeth, set his face like a flint, and tried to plunge through. But instead of plunging through he was, as I have said, an exceptionally brilliant man in some directions, he made such complete financial shipwreck that he never got on his feet enough to pay his funeral expenses.

Gospel Songs a Great Help.
It is now over 13 years ago since I gave my heart to God, at that time turning my back on my profession. Gospel songs were entirely unknown to me, for the reason that I was brought up in an old-fashioned Scotch home, and was compelled to attend the old Reformed Presbyterian church, where we sang nothing but Psalms.

It has been a very great source of joy for me this last 13 years to be engaged in the work of gospel song, for the reason that from what I have read of great religious awakenings, I cannot recall one in which gospel singing has not been used of God in a small degree.

I should just like to recall to your memory such great revivals as that under the Wesleys, then again the great 1859 revival, then again the wonderful power of gospel song in the Moody & Sankey meetings then in our own day the great Welsh revival. Then again we have another wonderful proof of the power of gospel song in Dr. Torrey's and Charlie Alexander's trip around the world, when such songs as "Tell Mother I'll Be There," "The Glory Song" and many others were sung into the hearts of the people.

WILLIAM M'EWAN

It is true, yet to me it is sad, that so many of our present day churches have the idea that a professional quartet is all that is needed in the church to sing the praise of Almighty God, and nine cases out of ten such churches are almost half empty, for the reason that there is no life in the song, and very often no grace in the hearts of those who sing.

I firmly believe that if we are to have sacred music as a part of the worship, then the minister must be vitally interested, and have the conviction that the singing is just as essential as the preaching. If the preacher is not interested in the singing and looks as if he wished it were over, it can readily be seen that his convictions do not reach very deep.

I firmly believe that nothing will appeal more to the hearts of careless, godless people than to hear God praised in gospel song, from the lips of those who seek to make an act of worship, and who enter into it with grace in their hearts.

A leader of praise should be a man who is a consecrated Christian, for the reason that he is not merely there to sing songs beautifully, as he is there to sing and get others to sing the old gospel into the hearts of his audience.

I believe that more congregational singing, and less singing by special quartets widens and deepens the interest. One Sunday evening in each month, given up entirely to simple gospel hymns, will go a long way to giving music its proper place in the church. I understand that this last suggestion has been carried on in the Moody church, Chicago.

Some places we go to we are told beforehand that the people don't and won't enter into the singing of the hymns, but more than often we find that the fault is not that of the congregation, so much as it is those who have charge of the music, in not providing the congregations with an opportunity to sing. We are not long in a town till the people that would not sing beforehand, enter heart and soul into song, for the reason that our songs are of the simple type, which the average person can sing.

I firmly believe that we are living in a day when even the old songs of long ago can be sung with new snap and vigor that was lacking in our old-time style. Why should not we put our hearts and souls into this part of worship, and not leave it to a few, but have our church choirs filled with men and women whose hearts are right toward God, and are anxious to bring sunshine into others' lives, realizing in the words of the old song that,

There are lonely hearts to cherish,
While the days are going by,
There are weary souls who perish,
While the days are going by.
If a smile we can but renew,
While this journey we pursue,
Oh the good we all may do,
While the days are going by.

I remember one night in an American city a little bootblack on the street was blacking my boots, and I put to this bootblack as he worked over my boots the question, "My boy, are you saved?" and the boy treated it as a joke. I was not surprised; that is all you would expect of a poor, illiterate, uneducated bootblack on the street. But, men and women, it is not what you would expect of thinking men and thinking women, that when you come to these great eternal problems of God, eternity, salvation, heaven and hell, that they should be treated as a joke. But alas! they are treated as a joke by some men and women.

Any man or woman who trifles with questions like these plays, the part of a fool. I don't care what your culture is, what your social position is, what your reputation is for scholarship—I don't hesitate to affirm tonight that unless you have faced, or will face tonight this great question of your spiritual condition, with the profoundest earnestness and seriousness, you are playing the part of a fool.

"We should consider this question honestly. There are many people in our day who are trying to deceive others, and trying to deceive God, many men who in their most hearts know that they are wrong, but are trying to persuade themselves that they are right, and trying to persuade God that they are right.

"Men and women, you cannot deceive God. It will do you no good to deceive anybody else, and it is consummate folly to deceive yourself. The biggest fool on earth is the man who fools himself. Be honest. If you are lost, own it up; if you are on the road to perdition, acknowledge it; if you are not a Christian, say so. If you are an enemy of God, face the facts. If you are a child of the devil, admit it. Be honest, honest with yourself, honest with your fellowmen, honest with God.

"In the third place, we should consider the question thoroughly. There are many people who are honest enough, and serious enough as far as they go, but they don't go to the bottom of things. They are superficial. They give these tremendous questions a few moments' thought, and then their weak minds weary, and they say, 'I guess I am all right; I will take my chance.' You can't afford to guess on questions like these; we must have, not probability, but absolute certainty. It will not satisfy me to hope I am saved; I must know that I am saved; it will not satisfy me to hope I am a child of God. It will not satisfy me to hope that I am bound for heaven; I must know that I am bound for heaven. Do not lay these questions down until you have gone to the bottom of them, and know for an absolute certainty just where you stand.

Prayerfully.
"In the fourth place, you should consider these questions prayerfully. God tells us in His word, and we know it from experience, that the heart is deceitful above all things and desperately wicked (Jer. xviii. 9). There is nothing that the human heart is so deceitful about as about our moral and spiritual condition. Every man and woman by nature is very sharp-sighted to the faults of others, and very blind to their own faults. What we need is to face this question in prayer. You will never know where you stand until God shows you. Not till we pray at least the substance of David's prayer, 'Search me, O God, and know my heart, try me and know my thoughts, and see if there be any wicked way in me,' and God sheds the light of His Holy Spirit into our hearts, and shows us ourselves as He sees us, as we ever know ourselves as we really are.

"The great Scotch poet, Burns, I think, never said a wiser thing than when he wrote:
'O wad some power the giftie gie us,
To see ourselves as others see us;
It wad frae monie a blunder free us,

But, friends, there is something better than to see ourselves as others see us; that is, to see ourselves as God sees us. Oh! let us not leave this link tonight until we see ourselves in the light of God's presence, as God sees us, and that will only be in answer to definite and earnest prayer.

"I met one morning in an American city the pastor of a church of which I had formerly been pastor. As we met he said to me, 'Brother Torrey, I had an awful experience this morning.' I said, 'What was it, Brother Norris?' He said, 'You know Mrs. —, mentioning a member of the church of which he was now pastor, and of which I was formerly pastor. He said, 'You know she is dying. She sent for me to come and see her this morning. I hurried to her home. The moment I opened the door and entered the room she cried from her bed. 'Oh, Brother Norris, I have been a professing Christian for 40 years. I am now dying, and have just found out in my dying hour that I was never saved at all.'

The horror of it! to be a professing Christian for 40 years, and never find out till your life's at an end that you have never really been a Christian at all. Better find it out then than in eternity, but better find it out in the dawn of your professed Christian experience, better find it out tonight.

"I do not doubt that in this great crowd there is many a man and woman who has been a professing Christian for years who was never saved. After we had left Liverpool I read in a paper, edited by a clergyman in that city, a letter complaining about our meetings. In this letter, addressed to the public press, the writer said, 'These men produced the impression that some of our church members are not saved.' Well, that is the impression we tried to produce, for that is the truth of God. In Paducah's churches, and in the Nonconformist bodies, you will find many men and women who are unsaved.

Scripturally.
"Once more we should consider this question scripturally, according to the book. God has given to you and me only one safe chart and compass to guide us on our voyage through life toward eternity. That chart and compass is the Bible—the book I hold in my hand. If you steer your course according to this book, you steer safely; if you steer your course according to your own feelings, according to the speculation of the petty philosopher or the theologian, according to anything but the clear declaration of the only book of God, you steer your course to shipwreck. Any hope that is not founded on the clear, unmistakable teaching of God's word is absolutely worthless. Any hope founded on that book is a sure hope; any hope that is not built upon that book is not worth anything.

"In one of my pastorates a young married couple had entrusted to them by the Heavenly Father for a brief period a sweet little child. Then God in His infinite wisdom, and wisdom in this case which was not altogether inscrutable, took from these parents that little child home to Himself. Their hearts were deeply touched, and in the hour of their sorrow I went to call upon them, and taking advantage of their tenderness of heart pointed them to that Savior with whom their child was safely at home. And they professed to accept that Savior.

After some days and weeks had passed, and the first keenness of the sorrow had gone, they began to drift back into the world again, and I called upon them to speak with them. Only the wife was at home. I began by talking about the little child, and how safe and happy it was in the arms of Jesus, to all of which of course she gladly assented. Then I turned it a little bit and said to her, 'Do you expect to see your child again?'

"Oh," she said, "certainly; I have not a doubt that I will see my child again."

I said, "Why do you expect to see your child again?"

She said, "Because the child is with Jesus, and I expect when I die I shall go to be with him, too."

I said, "Do you think you are saved?"

"Oh, yes," she said, "I think I am saved."

I said, "Why do you think you are saved?"

"Because I feel so," she said.

I said, "Do you think you have eternal life?"

"Oh, yes," she said, "I think I am saved."

I said, "Are you on the road to heaven or the road to hell? You are on one or the other. There are only two roads, as we see by the Scripture Lesson which I read to-night. The Lord Jesus tells us that there are two and only two—the broad road that leadeth to destruction, and the narrow road that leadeth to life everlasting. Which road are you on? Are you on the road have eternal life."

I said "Why do you think you have eternal life?"

"Because," she said, "I feel so."

I said, "Is that your only ground of hope?"

She said, "That is all."

I said, "Your hope is not worth anything."

That seemed cruel, didn't it? but it was kind.

I said, "Your hope is not worth anything. Can you put your finger upon anything in the sure word of God that proves you have everlasting life?"

"No, the said, 'I cannot.'

"Well, then, I said, 'your hope is absolutely worthless.'

Then she turned on me, which she had a perfect right to do. It is quite right to talk back to preachers—I believe in it—and she began to talk back, and she said:

"Do you expect to go to heaven when you die?"

I said, "Yes, I know I shall."

She said, "When you die, you expect to be with Christ?"

"Yes," I said, "I know I shall."

She said, "Do you think you have everlasting life?"

"Yes," I said, "I know I have."

She said, "Can you put your finger upon anything in the word of God that proves you have eternal life?"

I said, "Yes, thank God, John iii. 36; 'He that believeth on the Son God that proves you have everlasting life.'"

"Now," I said, "I know I believe on the Son of God, and on the sure ground of God's word I know I have everlasting life."

"Can you put your finger upon anything in the word of God that proves you are saved? If you can't I advise you to stay to the after-meeting and find out if you are saved; if not, be saved tonight. And if you are saved, find out something in God's word that proves it."

Suggestions.

"One thing more before I close, and that is a few suggestions that will help you in considering this question, 'where art thou?' First of all, are you saved, or are you lost? You are one or the other. Unless you have been definitely saved by a definite acceptance of a definite Savior, Jesus Christ, you are definitely lost. Just two classes—lost sinners and saved sinners. To which class do you belong?

"Second, are you on the road to heaven or the road to hell? You are on one or the other. There are only two roads, as we see by the Scripture Lesson which I read to-night. The Lord Jesus tells us that there are two and only two—the broad road that leadeth to destruction, and the narrow road that leadeth to life everlasting. Which road are you on? Are you on the road that leads up to God and heaven and glory, or are you on the road that leads down to Satan and sin and shame and hell?

"Some years ago one of our American sailors came into a mission in New York City, and as he passed out of the mission not very much affected, a worker at the door put a little card into his hand. On this card were printed these words, 'If I should die tonight I would go to—' The place was left blank, and underneath was written, 'Please fill up and sign your name.'

"The sailor, without even reading the card, put it in his pocket and went down to the steamer, went to his bunk and put the card in the edge of his bunk. In the journey over he was thrown from the rigging and broke his leg. They took him down to his berth, and as he lay there day after day that card stared him in the face. He looked at it one day—'If I should die tonight I would go to—' 'Well, he said, 'if I filled that out honestly I would have to write, hell. If I should die tonight I would go to hell. But,' he said, 'I won't fill it out that way,' and lying there in his berth he took Jesus Christ and filled the card—'If I should die tonight I would go to heaven.' He came on to England, went back to New York, walked into the mission and handed in the card with his name signed to it.

Suppose you had such a card to fill up—'If I should die tonight I would go to—' What would it be?

Again, are you a child of God or a child of the devil? We live in a day in which many superficial thinkers are telling us that all men are the children of God. That is not the teaching of the Bible, and it is not the teaching of Jesus Christ. Jesus Christ says distinctly in John viii. 44, talking to certain Jews, 'Ye are of your father the devil.' And we are told in 1 John iii. 10, 'In this the children of God are manifest, and the children of the devil.' And we are told distinctly in John i. 12, 'As many as receive Him, to them gave He power to become the sons of God.' Children of God, or children of the devil. Every one of us here tonight is either one or the other. Which are you?

When I was speaking more than a year ago in the city of Ballarat in Australia there sat a long line of educated Chinamen in the meeting listening to the sermon. I was preaching on the same text as to-night. I came to the point I have come to now, and I said to myself, 'I guess I will leave that out; that Personally appeared before me the 3rd day of October, 1910, R. D. MacMillen, Business Manager of The Sun, who affirms that the foregoing is a true and correct statement of its circulation for the month of September, 1910, to the best of his knowledge and belief.

Notary Public.

My commission expires January 10, 1912.

Daily Thought.

There is no better sign of a brave man than a hard hand.—Shakespeare.

MANUEL.

King Manuel, of Portugal, is a fugitive. Manuel is better off. When he gets used to it he will sleep better at night, and he may marry whomsoever he pleases. We have no concern about his financial conditions. Most kings haven't much sense, we take it; but most of them generally go into exile "well heeled". There is no particular honor, anyway, in sitting supinely on a throne by virtue of being the inbred scion of a bastard line. He had no power, simply a name by which others exercised power. Great wrongs were done the people of the country in his name. Perhaps, it wasn't his fault; he didn't know they were being done; he probably wouldn't have the intelligence to right them if he knew of them. Those who have the bringing up and control of royalty, do not encourage the initiative of their wards. The temptation to use royalty for their own ends is too great. So we can't see what Manuel has been deprived of excepting a lot of trouble. He got out of the mess alive, which is much to be thankful for, when one considers the situation in all its possibilities. That is why we say Manuel is better off.

WORSHIPPING THE INSTINCTS.

"Save man was won," when he had run across something he could not understand, to call it a God at discretion and give it a niche in his ever growing pantheon. Perhaps, it is his inordinate regard for primitive impulses as opposed to social conventions, that induces his conduct; but we find Elbert Hubbard, immediately he has discovered the "personal devil", falling down and worshipping it.

Elbert, we learn from his own lips, has found that under the conventions of society and the glib professions of religion, human nature still lurks within us; and instincts, that link us to the earth among the plants and lower animals, refuse to desert this mortal tenement of clay, despite the struggles for spiritual ideals. Therefore, says Elbert, here is truth and right, and he flippantly restates with all the assurance of epigram, what philosophers before him cautiously defined: "Strength and strength's will are the supreme ethic."

Carlisle says that "Strength, well understood, is the measure of all worth", and so, we must accord to Elbert credit neither for the genius that expresses for us thoughts we have long cherished, nor for originality, the essence of which is sincerity. Elbert mistakes the nature of strength, and reminds us of the man, who having heard for the first time the theory of evolution, was ready to dispense with a Creator in favor of the original protoplasm, until someone asked him who made the protoplasm. Elbert says we must work for ourselves, because it is our nature; self-sacrifice and abnegation are signs of weakness and cowardice; and he assures us that even the pious saint takes a natural egotistic delight in his own piety. Marvellous observation! One, Jesus Christ, mentioned and condemned that same sort of piety some eighteen hundred years before Elbert, and gave expression to a great deal of valuable philosophy, which would well repay the consideration of those who find themselves deluded by the more vigorous than profound utterances of the sage of East Aurora.

Carlisle has well said that "strength is the measure of all worth", and he wisely modifies it by the phrase, "well understood." Instead of deifying those elemental instincts of self-preservation and egotism, which a wise Creator has implanted in every plant and animal for the perpetuation of species, they should be subordinated to the uses for which they were intended; for from these instincts springs all the selfish desires and vices of mankind.

Strength and courage are better exemplified in subordinating the brute instincts and restraining elemental passions, than in the acquisition and achievement of their desires.

The courage that sends a soldier into battle is not the same courage that impels a lion to fight for his food. The former is of the self-sacrificing character, a true crucifixion of self; the latter is but the desperation of a brute, whose natural caution is overcome by the demands of appetite.

It is true, a hungry lion will fight more valiantly and against greater odds than a full one; so will a hungry highwayman; ergo, according to the Hubbard philosophy, a hungry highwayman is the highest type of man, and we are immortal only when we are desperate.

We have known men, who became rich and politically powerful because they had neither the strength nor the courage to remain poor, or forego ambitions realized at the expense of honor. The man, who gets rich by immoral means, though he be ruthless and ruggedly intellectual, manifests the strength and courage of the hungry lion, not the strength and courage of the soldier; for he probably had not the courage to undergo the hardships of poverty and "slings and arrows of outrageous fortune" when tempted by the certainty of material gain. Yet, only he of all men knows how unsatisfying is such success; for he has a soul which makes but a poor obeisance to a brute instinct.

Every good thing the human race enjoys, from the birth of a child to the boon of liberty, was produced at the expense of the deliberate, self-sacrifice and pain and suffering of individuals, who can never be repaid by those, who reap the benefits.

Search history and learn that the immortal have sacrificed self, that the courageous have restrained their desires; but the "strength", which is the measure of all worth, has overcome instinct and subordinated it, not been commanded by it.

Heard in the Lobby

Mr. Willis Morgan has in his possession a vegetable freak, which was raised on the farm of his son, H. B. Sander. Two potatoes of two entirely different varieties, one a round red skinned potato, the other long and white, are connected by a single tentacle. Not a single white potato was planted in the patch, and the one attached in this case is the only one found in digging them up. All the others on the same plant were red. Gardeners are puzzled to understand what propagated a two different varieties on the same vine.

THE NILE.
It is of a Lovely Sameness Everywhere.

Some people talk of the "sameness" of the Nile; and there is a lovely sameness of golden light, of delicious air, of people, and of scenery. For Egypt is, after all, mainly a great river with strips on each side of cultivated land, flat, green, not very varied. River, green plains, yellow plains, pink, brown, steel gray, or pale yellow mountains, wall of shadow, wall of sahel. Yes, I suppose there is a sameness, a sort of golden monotony, in this land pervaded with light and pervaded with sound. Always there is light around you, and you are bathing in it, and nearby always, if you are living, as I was, on the water, there is a multitude of mingling sounds floating, floating to your ears. As there are two lines of green land, two lines of mountains following the course of the Nile, so there are two lines of voices that cease their calling and their singing only as you draw near to Nubia.

For then, with the green land, they fade away, these miles upon miles of calling and singing brown men; and amber and ruddy sands creep downward to the Nile. And the air seems subtly changing, and the light perhaps growing a little harder. And you are aware of other regions unlike those you are leaving, more African, more savage, less suave, less like a dreaming. And especially the silence makes a great impression on you. But before you enter this silence, between the amber and ruddy walls that will lead you on to Nubia and to the land of the crocodile, you have a visit to pay. For here, high up on a terrace, is Kom Ombo. And Kom Ombo is the temple of the crocodile god.—R. Hitchens, in the Century.

Woman Justices of the Peace.

Although, as Lord Halsbury told the royal commission on Justices of the Peace, he has never made a woman a magistrate, lady justices were not uncommon centuries ago. The countess of Richmond, mother of Henry VII, was one, and according to Noy, the attorney-general to Charles I, decided many important cases. There is also the instance of Lady Bartlett, who was made a justice by Queen Mary, and sat on the bench in Gloucestershire, and that of Lady Berkeley, who, under extraordinary circumstances, became judge in her own cause. She complained to Henry VIII that certain people had killed her deer and done damage to her property. So that susceptible monarch immediately granted her a special commission under the great seal to hear and determine these misdemeanors and made her one of the commissioners of the quorum. She then returned to Gloucester, opened the commission, sat on the bench in the public sessions hall, impaneled a jury, who found the prisoners guilty, after which she pronounced exemplary sentences on them.—London Chronicle.

Chestiness of Cobb.
Ty Cobb has been reviled more than any other player in baseball. He is called "chesty," a "well head," a "grandstand player," a "murdering base runner" and other names enough for a stranger to the game of baseball to think the great ball player to be a dyed-in-the-wool ruffian of the worst stripe.

Now, Cobb is "chesty," "cocky" and "fresh," but those are the qualities that make the best ball players. Cobb was the freshest kid who ever broke into the big leagues' class, is what every Detroit player says who was with the Tigers when Cobb first joined them. But it was that chestiness and nothing else that enabled him to climb to the top of the profession where he stands pre-eminent now, and there will be no one to push him off that high pinnacle until he himself says so.

And what is "chestiness" but the feeling one has that one is just as good if not better than anyone else in the line of business one follows?

Cobb felt it in his youthful home that he was as good a player as any one on the Detroit team, and made good the feeling imbued in him that caused the expansion of chest he is accused of. "Chestiness" is one of

NEW CHIMES

COMPLETED AND INSTALLED TODAY.

Hours Musically Recorded By Electricity at J. L. Wolff's Jewelry Store.

The work of installing the new electrical Cathedral Chimes in front of the jewelry store of J. L. Wolff was completed today by Mr. H. C. Korfhaug, of Louisville, the maker. The deep, full tones of the massive bronze tubes may be heard from blocks and are proving a constant surprise and delight to passersby.

It is interesting to note that the second set of electrically operated chimes in the United States is located right here in J. L. Wolff's jewelry store and that the other is located in Kentucky also—at the Seelbach in Louisville.

The mechanism is extremely simple. Every 15 minutes, exactly on the sixtieth second, a contact is made which, in return, actuates a solenoid which cuts in a small motor on the lighting circuit, operating the hammers which strike the tubes.

The complete mechanism cost $850 and is regarded by mechanics who have examined it as a masterpiece. The installation of these chimes is only one of a series of improvements and alterations which are under way at the handsome store at 327 Broadway and, when they are completed, it will be a store of which all west Kentucky, as well as Paducah, may be proud.

Says Democrats Are All Republicans
"I talked politics in a country store the other day, with a vigorous, profane, down-east in-Maine Democrat," writes The Interpreter in the August American Magazine. Continuing the writer says:

"He was one of those rugged characters, and he had all the injurious animosities of a patriot who has long suffered persecution for the sake of opinions that were mostly erroneous. It was seldom indeed in his experience that bonfires had been lighted for his party. But today he had just come home from a tour of the state and his breast was full of the hopes of victory. He drained his cup of cider and, shaking his huge fist in the air at the Republican postmaster, who looked over the pile of letters he was sorting with a smile of indulgent superiority (for he had heard this talk for thirty years or more), he roared: 'We've got 'em licked, sir. I tell you, by Jehoshaphat, we've routed them horse, foot and dragoon. They have bamboozled the people too long. We'll carry this congressional district as sure as the Lord made little apples. We'll knock out that condemned humbug at Augustus and put in a good Democrat in his place. And by the Lord Harry we'll elect a United States senator! Then suddenly the light of triumph died out of his eyes and he said sadly: 'But what good will it do? What's the use? The blankety-blank, dash blank dash leaders of the Democratic party are all Republicans.'"

"I asked him what he meant. Weren't they regular? Oh, yes, they were regular enough. Didn't they vote the ticket? They did. Then what was the matter with them? Why were they Republicans? Well, this leader in Portland is a corporation lawyer. That one at Saco or Biddeford is a lobbyist for the Boston and Maine. Another at Bangor is hand-in-glove with the Republican machine. A fourth is the Democratic agent in Augusta of the insurance companies. A fifth is a bank president. A sixth is a 'diddle-dydad-binged of' aristocrat that has no more use for a rattlesnake. I'm not sure that I have remembered exactly the localities or the occupations of the gentleman named, but this in general was my ancient's definition of what at present constituted a Republican politician in the Democratic ranks."

Jennie Lynn Arrested.
Jennie Lynn, a sister of Jim Jones, was arrested today by Deputy Sheriff Charles Clark and placed in the county jail on the charge of murder. She was held over to the grand jury from police court on the charge of being an accessory to the killing of John Gibson, but the grand jury indicted her as a principal. She has been out on bond. The trial of Jones and his sister will be tomorrow in circuit court.

Modern Car Wheel Lathes.
I think it will be safe to say that the output of the best American lathes averaged six pairs of wheels per day fully ten years ago. This was when using tool steel of the ordinary variety. Since the advent of the high-speed tool steel the designers of the United States have brought up their machine tools from year to year to a constantly higher state of efficiency, until the best lathes were probably averaging 12 pairs of wheels per day five years ago. Within the past two or three years this output has been steadily increased by improvements in design and methods of handling, until at the present time many lathes are equipped with lathe turning wheels in 10 hours, these outputs being readily obtainable with tires of all the standard makes of England, Germany and America.—Cassier's Magazine.

Cholera Aboard.
New York, Oct. 6.—The steamship Sant' Anna, from French and Italian ports, now detained at Quarantine, had a case of cholera aboard. The victim, a man in the steerage, died on September 25, and was buried at sea. Two other cases of intestinal trouble are under observation. Meanwhile the Sant' Anna, carrying 22 first cabin passengers, some of them prominent Americans, and 1,072 in the steerage, is held as a possible "cholera carrier" pending further investigation.

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

Almond-DuBois Wedding.
The Lynchburg (Va.) News says of a wedding in that city on October 4, that has wide social interest in Paducah:

"The wedding of Miss Ethel Almond and Mr. George Stanley DuBois, of Paducah, Ky., at the Almond home, 813 Fifth street, last night at 6 o'clock, was charming in its simplicity. The two spacious reception parlors were thrown into one and here the guests assembled. On account of a recent bereavement in the family of the bride, only the immediate families were present. The ceremony was performed in the back parlor, where an altar was improvised. Potted palms and southern smilax were used attractively in the decorations. The palms were banded around the altar, and the mantels were twined with smilax. Immediately over the altar was suspended the wedding bell and flanking the sides were graceful pillars, draped with smilax and topped with lighted candelabras.

"Dr. William E. Hatcher, of Richmond, a cousin of the bride, performed the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. W. W. Hamilton, of the First Baptist church. Miss Almond had no attendants and was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. William J. Almond. The bride and Mr. Almond waited on the stairs in the hall while Mrs. Maury Jordan sang 'Believe Me,' and descending the steps to the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin, entered through the front parlor and were met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, Edwin J. Paxton, of Paducah. Professor Emil Berger played 'O Promise Me' during the ceremony and Mr. Kleuter accompanied him with the violin.

"The bride's wedding gown was crepe meteor, trimmed in Duchesne. The veil was caught with orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of white lilies of the valley. Her only ornament was a diamond and pearl brooch, the gift of the groom. Her going away gown was black broadcloth.

"Mr. and Mrs. DuBois left on the 7:20 train for New York. They will visit in the Catskills, Buffalo, Indianapolis and Louisville and will be at home in Paducah after October 20.

"The bride is the youngest daughter of one of Virginia's most prominent families. Her father was the late Charles Henry Almond, who was intimately identified with the civic and material growth of Lynchburg.

"Mr. DuBois is associated with his father in the wholesale drug business in Paducah, and is prominent in the commercial and social life of that city.

"Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. L. S. DuBois, of Paducah; Henry Cave, of Paducah; W. S. Johnson, of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Saunders M. Almond, of Baltimore; Miss Marie Bell, of Chattanooga; Miss Margarette Witt, Miss Vixella Cunningham and William Patton, of Lexington, Va.; Mrs. William A. Almond, of Suffolk, Va.; Mrs. N. A. Rees, of Alexandria, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Warren Rucker, of Roanoke, Va.; Mr. Dan Rucker, of Hampton, Va.; Mrs. Edward A. Watson, of Nimrod Hall, Va.; William T. Biedler, of Baltimore, and Paul Biedler, of V. M. I., Lexington, Va.

NEW CURE FOR PELLAGRA.

Mrs. Jackson is recovering and is preparing to return to her home in this city.

HOKE SMITH GOVERNOR.

Joe M. Brown Did Not Carry a Single County.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 6.—Hoke Smith was elected to serve a second term as governor of Georgia. Incomplete returns indicate that Gov. Joseph M. Brown, who was defeated for the gubernatorial nomination in the August Democratic primaries, and whose name was placed before the voters as an independent Democratic candidate, did not receive a majority of votes cast in any one of the 146 counties of the state. All the regular Democratic nominees for state and county offices were elected, the vote for the Socialist ticket being inconsequential.

Three constitutional amendments were apparently adopted by large majorities. One of these provides that counties may levy taxes in support of high schools, the other being local in effect.

Sir Arthur Sullivan's Reverses.

Twice in his career Sir Arthur Sullivan, after building up a small fortune, was placed in the same unenviable position as was Mark Twain when in 1895 his "rainy day" balance disappeared in the failure of a concern in which he was interested. And the famous composer met financial disaster with the same equality as did the author. By far the greater of the two financial disasters which overtook Sullivan happened in 1882, and the news reached him under very dramatic circumstances. In that year "Iolanthe" was produced at the Savoy, and as usual its composer conducted the first performance. On the day fixed for the production the bankruptcy was announced of the firm in whose keeping Sir Arthur had entrusted all his securities, and the news of the crash reached the composer just as he was setting out for the Savoy theater. "In a moment," says Mr. Lawrence, his biographer, "the result of the work of a lifetime and of economy had been swept away. From the monetary point of view he had to make a beginning all over again; but, unmoved by his ill fortune, he conducted the first performance of 'Iolanthe' that night."—London News.

Warned in Advance.

When the pious-looking lady entered the bird shop and stated her need of a talking parrot, the proprietor "reckoned" he'd got the werry thing the lady wanted.

"Course, ma'am," he said, "there one, talks like a reg'lar 'ymn book, 'e does. 'I wouldn't let 'im go if I didn't think you'd give 'im a respectable 'ome. Thirty-five shillings, that bird, ma'am."

"You'll soon know!" screeched Polly. "You'll soon know!"

"Dear me. How quaint!" gushed the lady; and thirty-five shillings changed hands. "What does he mean by 'You'll soon know,' I wonder?"

"It's 'is only blimish, ma'am," smiled the bird-shop man. "E's got into 'is 'ead that everyone's wonderfully anxious to find out wot a missionary sez when he 'its 'is thumb with a 'ammer."—London Ideas.

DEAN OF DOCTORS
IS ENTERTAINED

DR. JOHN G. BROOKS SURPRISED BY PROFESSION.

Was Enticed to His Office, Where They Made Merry on His Birthday.

A SEVENTIETH ANNIVERSARY

Enticed from his home on Jefferson street last night, Dr. John G. Brooks was smuggled through the steady downpour of rain that had made Wednesday most disagreeable for him, and shown into his own office, on the second floor of the

J. G. Brooks M.D.

Trueheart building, where the biggest surprise of his life awaited him. In honor of his seventieth birthday Dr. Brooks was made host by 20 Paducah physicians and an elaborate banquet was enjoyed with numerous toasts to the dean of Paducah doctors.

It was all arranged Tuesday by the physicians to do honor to Dr. Brooks and not until he had climbed the steps to his office last night and walked into the brilliant room did he have the least idea of a birthday celebration. Dr. D. G. Murrell was toastmaster and all physicians present used Dr. Brooks as a subject for the "clinic." The eminent practitioner was picked to pieces, held under the microscope for a test and in general passed around for examination. Every part of the doctor was good.

Instead of lying on an operating table under the influence of chloroform while a score of physicians were dissecting him, Dr. Brooks occupied the seat of honor. The operating instruments were speeches especially prepared for the occasion, showing Dr. Brooks in every phase of life.

Dr. Murrell led off by praising Dr. Brooks and telling how he aided him in his work here. City Health Officer S. Z. Holland was the second speaker and discussed "Dr. Brooks as a Physician."

"Dr. Brooks as a Citizen" was discussed by Dr. J. Q. Taylor. Following Dr. Taylor, City Physician W. J. Bass discussed "Dr. Brooks as a Friend." "Dr. Brooks' Success in Life" was the subject of Dr. Vernon Blythe's paper. Dr. J. T. Reddick told of "Reminiscences."

Dr. C. E. Purcell spoke on "The Significance of This Occasion" and Dr. P. H. Stewart discussed "Dr.

Brooks as a Surgeon." Dr. Horace Rivers spoke of "Dr. Brooks' Personality." Col. R. J. Barber told of "Dr. Brooks as a Patriotic Rebel."

Dr. Brooks was unable to express himself for some time, but finally said: "This affair is the grandest thing that ever happened to me." Dr. Brooks reached the age of 70 years yesterday. The reception and banquet was given as a surprise and it carried as such. Dr. Brooks was born in Montgomery county, Tennessee, and when he was 11 years old he removed with his family to Ballard county. He remained there until the outbreak of the Civil war and enlisted. In 1867 he returned to Ballard county, raised a crop of tobacco, sold it and had enough money to take him to a medical school at Nashville. From there he went to Philadelphia, where he was graduated. He then came to Paducah, but in 1872 he went to the Hawaiian Islands and in 1874 returned home. He has been here ever since and has built up a big practice in medicine and surgery.

Those present last night were:

Kennedy, the well known tobacco dealer, bought a pen of barred Plymouth Rocks from Mrs. Bryant. Mr. Clarence Sherrill purchased a pen of brown leghorns from Louis Kicksola, of Unionville, Ill., and Capt. John E. Rollins, of the ferryboat Robertson, bought a pen of brown leghorns from Mr. Kicksola. Many more such sales were made.

Mr. Carl Faust, who was in charge of the poultry display with Mr. Henry Hazotte, expressed the opinion that the sales last week will stimulate farmers all over west Kentucky to come to Paducah next year and make entries of poultry. There is a big demand for high-bred poultry and liberal prices are paid by the enthusiastic growers.

RUNAWAY BOY

AFRAID TO GO HOME AND CRAWLED IN CAR.

Were Locked in and Brought to Paducah and Fall in Good Hands.

Without food or drink for 24 hours, Tommie and Johnnie Clark, two young lads from Jackson, Tenn., were rescued yesterday afternoon by Patrolman C. D. Gilliam on a siding at the Union station. The youngsters rode all the way from their home in a freight car loaded with lumber, and were badly frightened when taken from the car.

They attended school at Jackson, and according to their stories were chewing gum. The teacher made them throw it away, but they continued to chew paper until the pupils laughed. As a result both of the lads were suspended by the teacher. Then they were afraid to return to their home, and went to the railroad yards. It began to rain and for shelter they crawled into a box car.

Soon they were asleep on the lumber, and were asleep when a brakeman closed the door of the car and sealed it. They slept soundly, and when they awoke the car was moving and it was dark inside. They yelled and knocked on the door, but their appeals for help were in vain. Their tears made streaks down their dirty faces, but yesterday they cried themselves to sleep again.

The freight train arrived yesterday afternoon over the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railroad, and the car loaded with lumber was placed on siding near the Union station.

The lads were hungry, and Patrolman Gilliam's heart was too big to see them suffer. He took them to his home on Guthrie avenue, where the youngsters devoured food faster than Mrs. Gilliam could prepare it. After a big supper they were tucked in bed and awaited until today for their father, John Clark, to arrive and get them. Tommie was 14 years old and his brother was one year his junior.

Anyone Can Lay Regal Roofing

A hammer and knife—the only tools necessary. Complete instructions, fully illustrated, packed in each roll. And they are so simple that anyone can produce a perfectly water-tight roof. Special large headed galvanized nails avoid the necessity of unsightly tin caps, which quickly rust and cause leaks. J-M REGAL ROOFING, when properly applied, will outwear any other roofing of its class, and it gives the best roof at the lowest cost. J-M REGAL ROOFING is the outcome of more than 50 years' experience in manufacturing roofing materials. It represents the result of a half century of experience and a constant endeavor to produce a really high grade roofing at a low grade price. While not the lowest in cost, it contains more real value than any other manufacturer can produce for the price.

The base of J-M REGAL ROOFING is genuine J-M TRINIDAD LAKE ASPHALT—the most durable water-proofing material known. As Trinidad Lake Asphalt has been used for 30 years for street paving, it is well adapted for roofing, where the conditions are far less severe. Call and examine this roofing—let us give you samples and interesting booklet of information.

A Crown of Love

By H. SANBORNE BROWN

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

The reigning sovereign of Atruria, Prince Carl, had a son, Oluf. A neighboring principality—Essengen—had lost its ruler in the male line, none remaining except the Princess Clothilde and her younger sister Minna. Clothilde, who occupied the throne, being a very feminine woman, was averse to the duties of sovereignty. She would have abdicated in favor of her sister, but Minna had no more desire to rule than Clothilde. Indeed, the people of Essengen were a turbulent lot who required the strong hand of a man to govern them and made no secret of their contempt for a sovereign queen.

There was every reason why the two contiguous principalities should be joined under one head. Negotiations to this effect were entered upon between Prince Carl on the one side and the nobles of Essengen on the other. It was proposed that Prince Oluf should marry the Princess Clothilde, the two to be prince and princess of the united principalities. After many demands and concessions a compact was made, and nothing remained but the consent of the two parties most especially concerned—Prince Oluf and Princess Clothilde. Prince Oluf visited the princess, and, as luck would have it, she fell desperately in love with him.

One of the points claimed by the princess' subjects was that she should be sovereign equally with the prince her husband, for at the time of the nuptials Prince Carl was to abdicate in favor of his son. There was so much feeling among the people of Essengen that in order to satisfy them one of Clothilde's ministers suggested that she wear the iron crown of the sovereign on her head at all public functions. The crown being heavy, a light one was made, and the princess wore it nearly all the while.

Great preparations were made for the wedding, which was to take place at the capital of Essengen, after which the bridal couple were to take up their residence in Atruria. The princess was so deeply in love with Oluf that she desired his presence most of the time in Essengen. This was not pleasing to the Princess Minna, who had conceived a great dislike for the prince. In deed, she gave out to those about her that she would be glad when the couple were married, since then they would remove to Atruria and she would no longer be troubled with the presence of a very disagreeable man.

Shortly before the nuptials were to take place the Princess Clothilde fell ill. There was at the time so much feeling on the part of her people as to her united sovereignty with the prince who was to be her husband, that, although she was an invalid, her ministers insisted on her still wearing the iron crown. On one occasion when she had left it off a citizen of influence who opposed the union of the principalities was admitted to see her and as soon as he had left the palace at tempted to foment a revolution on the ground that the princess had left of the crown.

Princess Clothilde grew worse and died, but a few days before the appointed marriage. Prince Carl, his son Prince Oluf, the Atrurians and many Essengens were bitterly disappointed that the prospective union of the two countries had thus fallen through. Prince Oluf, however, who had taken as much liking to Princess Minna as she had taken dislike to him—indeed it was said that had she been sovereign she would have been his choice—proposed that all that had been arranged should be carried out, Minna to become his wife instead of Clothilde.

The proposition was accepted to by the union party of Essengen, but all expected that Minna even for reasons of state would not marry a man she so cordially disliked. However, the council went to her in a body, represented to her the importance of the union of the two countries and proposed that she become the wife of the man who was to have married her sister.

She flatly refused. Then commenced a struggle on the part of the unionists of Essengen. Prince Carl and especially Prince Oluf to induce her to change her mind. Prince Oluf, who had been in love with her instead of her sister from the start, was wild with disappointment. He wooed her with delicacy, but did not succeed in changing her antipathy for him. But what he could not bring about was in part effected by the princess' ministers. Finally on their representation that it was her duty to sacrifice herself for her people's good she consented to the marriage.

As soon as the fact was given out to the people the prime minister advised the princess to wear the iron crown. And now a strange thing happened. Prince Oluf was advised that the princess desired to see him. He entered gloomily from the fact of a dislike on the part of the woman he loved that he had not been able to conquer. What was his surprise when the princess put her arms lovingly around his neck and her head dropped on his shoulder.

She married not only for reasons of state, but for love.

Recently experiments in Paris by scientists have established the fact that a metal circlet worn on the head of a person suffering from hysteria if afterward placed on the head of another person will produce the same effect as in the first instance.

May we infer that in this instance it produced the same love?

SERMON OF

may offend somebody without doing any good."

But somehow or other God would not let me leave it out, so I put it in, and declared the whole counsel of God. The next night when I gave out the invitation among the others who came to the front was almost the entire line of educated Chinamen, and when they got up to give their testimony, one of them said this: "The reason why I came tonight and took Christ was this: I was here last night and heard Dr. Torrey say that everyone was a child of God or a child of the devil. I knew I was not a child of God, and therefore I knew I must be a child of the devil. I made up my mind I would be a child of the devil no longer, and therefore I have come forward tonight to take Jesus Christ." I hope some of you educated Kentuckians will have as much sense as that educated Chinaman.

"Again, if you are a professing Christian, what kind of a Christian are you? Are you a mere formal Christian, or are you a real Christian? You know there are two kinds. Are you one of these men or women who call themselves Christians, who go to the house of God on the Sabbath, go to the communion on the Sabbath, perhaps teach a Bible class or a Sunday school class on the Sabbath, but the rest of the week they are running around after the theater, and the card-party and the dance, and all the frivolity and foolishness of the world—one of these Christians who are trying to hold on to Jesus Christ with the one hand and to the world with the other? Or are you a real Christian who has renounced the world with your whole heart and given yourself to Jesus Christ with all your heart, a Christian who can sing and mean it, 'I surrender all?' 'Where are thou?' 'That kind of a Christian are you?'"

Once more, are you for Christ, or are you against Him? You know you are either one or the other, for He says so. We read in Matt. xii. 30, 'The words of Jesus Himself, 'He that is not with Me, is against Me.' 'Everyone here tonight is either with Jesus wholeheartedly, confessedly, openly, or else you are against Jesus. Which are you? For Christ or against Him?'"

"In my first pastorate, year after year, for a series of years, there came an outpouring of God's spirit. In the second or third of these gracious outpourings of His Spirit a great many of the leading business men of the place were converted. It was a small place, but one of the leading business men in the community would not take stand. He was one of the most exemplary men in the community. I lost amiable, attractive, upright, a constant attendant at church, a member of my Bible class, and a member of my choir, but he was one of those men who wanted to please both sides. He was identified with friends in business, in the Masonic lodge, and elsewhere, who were not out-and-out Christians, and he was afraid that he would estrange them if he came out and out honestly for Christ. So the weeks passed by. One Sabbath morning in the Bible school, after the Sabbath morning service, he was passing out of my Bible class in the choir platform and passed by me superintendent of the Sunday school, who was an intimate friend. He had been in the Civil war together. As he passed by this intimate friend he turned to him and said:

"George?" "Well, what is it, Port?" said the other, calling him by name.
He said, "George, when are you going to take a stand?"
He said, "Ring the bell."
Promptly the superintendent stepped up to the bell and rang it, and the congregation going out of the building turned round in surprise, wondering what was going to happen. George stepped to the front of the platform. It was a community where everybody knew everybody else by their first name, and everybody was all curiosity, and he said: "Friends, I have heard it said time and time again during these meetings that a man must either be for Jesus Christ or against Him. I want you all to know that from this time on, Em"—his wife—"and I are for Christ. He decided for the whole family, and he did, in fact, for when they stood before the platform to receive the right hand of fellowship into the church, he stood there, and his wife, and his father-in-law, and his brother-in-law, and his sister-in-law—every member of the family that was not already in the fold."

Where Art Thou?

"Men and women there are many of you here tonight whose sympathies for years have been with the church of Jesus Christ, but you have never been men enough or women enough to take an open stand. Take it tonight. Say, 'As for me and my house, we are for Christ.' Where art thou? Put the question to yourself. Where art thou?"

There is one thing that makes it exceedingly important why you should face this question, and that is the fact that where you are tonight will in all likelihood determine where you shall spend eternity.

"A story is told of Dr. Forbes Winslow, the elder, of London, the eminent pathologist in diseases of the mind. A young French nobleman came to London bringing letters of introduction from leading French men, including one from Napoleon III., at that time emperor, introducing him to Dr. Forbes Winslow, and soliciting Forbes Winslow's best offices for the young man.

He presented his letters, and Dr. Winslow said, 'What is your trouble?'"

He said, "Dr. Winslow, I cannot sleep; I have not had a good night's sleep for two years, and unless something is done for me I shall go insane."

Dr. Winslow said, "Why can't you sleep?"

"Well," said the young man, "I can't tell you."

Dr. Winslow said, "Have you lost any money?"

"Have you lost friends?"

"No, I have lost no friends recently, not that I know of."

"Well, then," said the doctor, "why can't you sleep?"

The young man said, "I would rather not tell you."

"Well," said Dr. Winslow, "if you don't tell me I can't help you."

"Well," he said, "if I must tell you, I will. I am an infidel. My father was an infidel before me, and yet in spite of the fact that I am an infidel and my father was an infidel, every night when I lie down to sleep I am confronted with the question, 'Eternity, and where shall I spend it?'"

"All night that question rings in my ears. 'Eternity, and where shall I spend it?'" If I succeed in getting off to slumber my dreams are worse than my waking hours, and I start from my sleep again."

Dr. Winslow said, "I can't do anything for you."

"What!" said the young Frenchman, "have I come all the way over here from Paris for you to treat me, and you dash my hopes to the ground. Do you mean to tell me that my case is hopeless?"

Dr. Winslow repeated, "I can do nothing for you, but I can tell you a physician who can," and he walked across his study, took up his Bible from the center of the table, opened it at Isa. lili, 5 and 6, and began to read: "He was wounded for our transgressions, He was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon Him; and with His stripes we are healed. All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way; and the Lord hath laid on Him the iniquities of us all." And then, looking at the Frenchman, he said, "That is the only physician in the world that can help you."

There was a curl of scorn upon the Frenchman's lip.
He said, "Dr. Winslow, do you mean to tell me that you, an eminent scientist, believe in that worn-out superstition of the Bible and Christianity?"

"Yes," said Dr. Winslow, "I believe in the Bible, I believe in Jesus Christ, and believing in the Bible and believing in Jesus Christ has saved me from what you are today."

The young fellow stopped and thought, then he said, "Dr. Winslow, if I am an honest man I ought at least be willing to consider it, ought I not?"

"Yes, sir,"

"Well," he said, "will you explain it to me?"

And the eminent physician became a physician of souls, sat down with his open Bible, and for several consecutive days showed the young Frenchman the way of life. He saw Christ as his divine, atoning Savior, put his trust in Him and went back to Paris in rest of mind to sleep at night. He had solved the great question of eternity and where he should spend it, for he would spend it with Christ in glory.

Men and women, eternity and where will thou spend it? Where you will spend eternity very likely will depend upon where you are tonight.

FAMOUS "PINE" OF COUGH SYRUP RECIPE.

No Better Remedy at Any Price Fully Guaranteed.

Make a plain syrup by mixing one pint of granulated sugar and 1/2 pint of warm water and stir for two minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of pure Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup. This gives you a family supply of the best cough syrup at a saving of $2. It never spoils. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

The effectiveness of this simple remedy is surprising. It seems to take hold instantly, and will usually stop the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. It tones up the jaded appetite and is just laxative enough to be helpful in a cough, and has a pleasing taste. Also excellent for bronchial trouble, throat tickle, sore lungs and asthma, and an unequalled remedy for whooping cough.

This recipe for making cough remedy with Pinex and Sugar Syrup (or strained honey) is a prime favorite in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada. The plan has been initiated, though never successfully. If you try it, use only genuine Pinex, which is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in gaitalol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this recipe. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Postmaster-General Hitchcock, in speaking of the troubles encountered by new postmasters in rural districts, told of a case that recently was called to his attention.

A postmaster who had been on duty at a town in North Carolina for several weeks had failed to reply to any of the official communications which had been addressed to him. He had, however, been sending his reports without delay.

"We were just about to send an inspector down there," said the postmaster-general, "when we received a letter from the postmaster, in which he said:

"I have a big bundle of mail here addressed to P. M. and as no person with these initials gets mail here, what shall I do with it?"

Feet Tired-- So Tired?

TIZ Makes Sick Feet Well No Matter What Ails Them.

TIZ acts at once and makes tired, aching, swollen feet remarkably fresh and sore proof.

It's the sure remedy you know, for everything that gets the matter with your feet. It's for sore feet and for aching, burning, itching, and for corns, callouses and bunions, too.

"For years I have been troubled with sore and tender feet; suffered intense pain. Have had the assistance of physicians without relief. I bought a box of TIZ, which worked a perfect cure, as it has with a great many of my friends. I would not be without it. All it requires is to be known to be universally used."—A. F. Drentner, Chicago.

TIZ is not a powder. Powders and other foot remedies clog up the pores. TIZ draws out all poisonous exudations which bring on soreness of the feet and is the only remedy that does. TIZ cleans out every pore and glorifies the feet—your feet.

You'll never limp again or draw up your face in pain, and you'll forget about your corns, bunions and callouses. You'll feel like a new person. TIZ is for sale at all druggists at 25 cents per box, or it will be sent you direct if you wish from Walter Lathrop Dodge & Co., Dodge Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

BOILER MAKERS

HELPERS WILL MEET IN PADUCAH OCTOBER 19.

Annual Convention of National Organization—New Turn Table Arrives.

The new turn table for the Illinois Central roundhouse has arrived, and is waiting for the crew to arrive to install it. The new table is 85 feet long, and will be sufficient to turn the largest type of locomotives. The present turn table is only 66 feet long, and it will be necessary to enlarge the present pit. The old turn table will be repaired and will be placed in the yards at New Orleans. While the new table is being repaired the roundhouse cannot be used for running repairs, and the engines will be kept outside, and the "Y" used for the turns. The new table will be installed as quickly as possible and a day and night crew will install the new table.

October 19, 20, 21 and 22 the annual convention of the Boiler Makers and Iron Shipbuilders' Helpers of America will meet in Paducah. The local members will be the host for the convention, and W. T. Saxon, George Ballows and Joe Webb are members of the committee completing the arrangements.

Yesterday was the Jonah day for the fast passenger engine No. 2004. Three attempts were made to send the engine to Louisville, but on each occasion some accident prevented the trip. Twice there were minor break downs, but these were repaired quickly. Yesterday afternoon while running off the cinder pit one section of the track turned and the big locomotive was let down on the ground. Workmen worked until 3 o'clock this morning replacing the drivers on the track.

A. H. Egan, superintendent of the Louisville division, was in the city today on business.

Rises in all rivers.

Rises in all rivers, superinduced by general heavy rainfall, resulted in all records for rises being broken at Paducah when the government gauge at the foot of Broadway showed 12.2 feet of water at 7 o'clock this morning, indicating a rise of 6.3 feet since 7 o'clock Wednesday morning. It was a regular Carthage rise and the most came after midnight. At midnight the gauge read 7.8 feet. The precipitation here from 7 a. m. Wednesday to 7 a. m. today was 5 inches, making a total of 8.90 inches in the past 72 hours. Weather colder.

The unprecedented rise last night caused trouble in the local harbor and only by hard work were the steamers Chancy Lamb and Electra, moored at the foot of Monroe street, saved. They were blown loose by a stiff wind but taken back by tow-

Interesting Reading for Tubercular Invalids

The makers of Eckman's Alternative—the medicine that is curing tuberculosis all over the country—will send direct, a pamphlet and other literature, that every consumptive should read. It tells in their own language the story of those whom Eckman's Alternative has cured. Such straight-from-the-heart evidence as this booklet holds is convincing. No matter if you have unfortunately spent time and money experimenting with nearly every "cure" under the firmament—investigate Eckman's Alternative. It shows the heart-touching affidavit of a father whose only son was cured of tuberculosis by Eckman's Alternative after all hope had been abandoned, would it not carry some weight with you? A specimen: 718 Cherry St., Phila., Pa. Gentlemen: "In July, 1905, I first noticed the conditions that showed I had consumption. I lost weight rapidly; had a hollow cough, hemorrhages and very severe night sweats. My brother recommended Eckman's Alternative. In the fall of 1905 I began to take it. At this time I am perfectly well and robust. My appetite is good and my weight has increased from 110 to 140 pounds. Not a trace of my old trouble remains. I will gladly express the merits of this medicine to anyone."

(Signed) M. L. GERHARDT. Eckman's Alternative cures Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Affections. Ask for booklet of cure cases and write to the Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for additional evidence. For Sale by druggists and List Drug Co., in Paducah.

boats and made fast. The south stage plank of the wharfbat was partly submerged this morning and a crew of men were busy with towboats pulling the wharfbat closer to shore. The two sand diggers lying off the foot of Jefferson street were a good distance off shore this morning. All the rivers are rising and rivermen are predicting a flood stage this week. Water is backing up in the hollows here and threatening property. The rainfall yesterday and last night practically did not cease.

The Ohio came in today with a large list of shoppers and a good freight trip. She left for a return trip to Golconda at 2 p. m.

The Cowling is bringing in a large number of passengers and leaves for Metropolis at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Instead of returning to Evansville yesterday the Reuben Dunbar went to Nashville to resume her trade in the upper Cumberland. The John S. Hopkins will resume the Paducah and Evansville business as soon as she is let off the marine ways at Jeffersonville, Ind., where she is undergoing a general overhauling.

The J. B. Richardson is due tonight from Waterloo, Ala., and will make a return trip Saturday evening. She will unload at Brookport after her arrival.

The Robertson is doing a big ferry business today between Paducah and her Illinois landings.

The towboat R. J. Armstrong, which came up from Ogden's landing yesterday afternoon for supplies, returned today.

Lonnie Rogers has resigned his position as second clerk on the Dunbar and will go to Evansville.

The Dick Fowler departed for Cairo on time this morning and will return early tonight.

There is plenty of towboat water now and the towboats above here destined for southern ports may take advantage of the rise and leave with their towns of coal. Millions of bushels of coal have been lying at Pittsburgh awaiting a good towboat stage.

The John L. Lowry will be the Evansville packet tomorrow.

THEATER

It is difficult to tell who was the most disappointed over the failure of the Margaret Anglin company to get here last night; the patrons, who had looked forward to this opportunity, the management, who had expected the big sale of tickets to make them solid with the big eastern managers as a good one night stand; or the actors, who enjoyed a long night's experience "barnstorming." The company, which was compelled to cancel Illinois dates picked up dates in Tennessee, and plays Columbia tonight. In order to reach Columbia they had to travel by car through the rain and mud from Morganfield to Uniontown, take the boat there to Mt. Vernon, Ind., travel by traction line to Evansville and transfer to the Louisville & Nashville for Columbia. Their baggage, which arrived yesterday afternoon in Paducah left for Columbia over the N. C. & St. L. this morning in charge of the carpenter. There was a big sale of seats for the
